Gifts of Love

Mummy, Papa, you mean the world to me,
In this vast world, the finest I see.
From books to clothes, all that I call,
In your vast love, I stand tall.

A room of my own, shoes, and more,
A welcoming home with an open door.
Hearts so kind, spirits so free,
In your embrace, true peace I find in thee.

We laugh and create memories so sweet,
Like that stormy night with melodies so neat.
On the treadmill now, I sprint with glee,
Grateful for all you have given to me.

Birthdays filled with laughter and light,
From adventures abroad to local delights.
Through tough times, you always find a way,
To brighten each and every day.

Thank you, dear Mummy and Papa, too,
For love and joy, and always being true.
My love for you, beyond what words can convey,
In my heart, forever you will stay.
