

Veer Lachhit Borphukan

Arbind Kumar Choudhary

Borphukan is a man of infantry
Who adds insult to injury
For the sake of landside victory
Amidst many an empty flattery ?

'My uncle is not greater than my country'
Speaks volumes about his pyrrhic victory
For the lap of luxury
Amidst many an gooseberry ?

He is a young man in a hurry
Who turns the century for the success story
Of Tom, Dick and Harry
Amidst many a world weary ?

How can one love his gentry of victory
Amidst many a light fingered gentry ?

The Mother

Arbind Kumar Choudhary

The Nourisher is the fairy god mother
Who keeps body and soul together
For the queen's weather
Amidst many a settled weather ?

This Goddess is the holy mother
Who sets up her house together
From smoke in to smother
Amidst many a get together ?

This sacrificer is the celestial mother
Who puts two and two together
In one way and another
Amidst many a Giridhar ?
How can one hanker after this bird watcher
Amidst many a heavenly mother ?

Arbind Kumar Choudhary is a distinguished poet and academic, whose poetry collections Majuli: The Vatican City of Assam and Mother India are included in the B.A. English Honours and M.A. English syllabus at Sibsagar University, Assam. He has been honored as the Universal Ambassador of Peace and the Phrasal King in Indian English Poetry by the Geneva-based Universal Ambassador Peace Circle and Universal Peace Embassy. His research on love and relationships in his works has been approved by The Pacific University of Rajasthan. Dr. Choudhary's work has been featured in numerous Indian and international publications, including The Daily Guardian, The Hans India, and others across America, Romania, Albania, Bangladesh, and Malta.

Currently, he heads the Department of English at Rangachahi College, Majuli, Assam. He is reachable via email at arbind.choudhary11@gmail.com and Whatsapp-7004151639,