

Poems by Dr. Rajamouly Katta

Sculptures of Musings

Musings are fantastic
Fanciful as well as artful
Away from outer senses
As a concealed treasure
Musings dawn
At the sight inspiring
And undergo poetic prowess
In the poet's mind for a poem
With Beauty for readers' gaiety
Like a sculpture that has form
When chiselled in the skill
In the imaginative process
In the mind of a sculptor
Like the texture of a filigree
With the variety of threads
Interwoven to shine
In the rainbow tinctures
In the mind of a weaver,
Like the earth in creation,
For the mirth of flora and fauna
The creator knows wonders
In the imaginative process
The sculpture of musings,
Risen from the poet's mind,
In the poem, the word picture
Gushed from the pen.
Musings are shaped into a poem
Like a sculpture from rock
Like an ornament from gold
Like a goblet from clay.

Good Hearts

I love to see the people
With good hearts
They wish human welfare,
The progress of human race
They are truth lovers
To say that a spade is a spade,
No hypocrisy, no guise
No appearance, no fancy-dress show
Only real colours to glow
To be away from deception.

I love those who love nonviolence
That detests fears and tears
That hates bloodshed,
Mass killings, massacres
That bestows on life peace
The principle of humanity
Human distinction
Its love for mankind
That conquers the mission
The real achievement of man.

Real justice is social justice
Built with the bricks
Of liberty, equality and fraternity
Liberty is not to do violence
It is not to hurt others' feelings
Equality in all walks of life
Not just with the right to vote
Fraternity is love for all
To enrich their happiness
And enjoy their progress.

Musings Like Lightning
(Villanelle in Pentameter)

Musings dawn in my mind for full delight,
For beauty and truth, they are singular,
Like lightning in the welkin to shine bright.

Musings sing like cuckoos in spring topflight,
Spread scent and glitter in lovely colour,
Musings dawn in mind for my full delight

All seem to transport me to their full sight,
On their wings to the world spectacular,
Like lightning in the welkin to shine bright.

All feast like rainbows through drops in sunlight,
I tend to pen them in verse popular,
Musings dawn in mind for my full delight,

All, flashing in mind in the speed of light,
Seem to flee in their mood particular,
Like lightning in the welkin to shine bright.

But musings are bubble-spanned in their plight,
They vanish soon like the strange traveler,
Musings dawn in mind for my full delight,
Like lightning in the welkin to shine bright.

Dr. Rajamouly Katta, M.A., M. Phil., Ph. D., Professor of English by profession and poet, short story writer, novelist, writer, critic and translator by predilection, has to his credit 64 books of all genres and 638 publications of poems, short stories, articles and translations published in journals, books and anthologies of high repute. He has so far written 3672 poems (including 1512 haiku) and published them in 22 anthologies, 200 short stories in 9 anthologies, 9 novels 27 skits. Creative Craft of Dr. Rajamouly Katta: Sensibilities and Realities is a collection of articles on his works. As a poet, he has won several awards and prizes in Poetry Contests. He is the Editor-in-chief, Creative Crystal Publication, Dallas, America.

Email: rajamoulykatta@gmail.com