

A Poem by Natalie Bisso. Germany

I would like to...

I will accept all kind words without hesitation,
Let them think.: "Proud! "but they will say that talent!
I would like to write poetry without worries,
I would like to shine in poetry like a diamond.

And what does it matter to everyone that every verse is a prayer?,
That a spring is bursting out of my soul again.
I can feel the edge of a word like a razor.,
And I'll temper his like a sword with a diamond ray.

I will give the whole world happy poems.,
Let the eyes sparkle on the faces of all people,
And if suddenly, sometimes, they fill up with tears,
For happiness, let our hearts open up as soon as possible.

I will heal trouble, smooth out the folds of grief.,
That the heaviness in my soul aches painfully,
I'll light up the sun, arguing with the villainous fate,
I will force to break the "silence of the lambs*".

And let the day begin with beautiful dreams.,
The kids are laughing and the people are happy,
And let my poems seem like words to you.,
That at the most necessary hour of your happiness, the anthem will be sung.

* THE meaning of the expression "silence of the lambs" is submission and non-resistance to fate; this indicates someone's meekness, timidity, and downtroddenness in a situation where other character traits need to be shown.

Dr. H.c. Natalie Bisso is a poet, novelist, essayist, and songwriter. He is the author of 13 original collections, more than 150 songs, and co-author of more than 200 anthologies. The poems have been translated into 45 languages. Founder and President of the International Literary Association "Creative Tribune". Doctor of Science Honoris Causa.

HONORARY WORKER OF WORLD LITERATURE AND ARTS &quot; with the award of a silver badge. Corresponding member of the International Academy of Sciences and Arts. Academician of the International Academy for the Development of Literature and Art; Academician of the International Academy of Russian Literature. Included in the book &quot;50 unforgettable women of Europe.&quot;Member of the Senate of the Federation of World Leaders, Honorary member of the World Federation of Leadership and High Intelligence A.C.; OUTSTANDING SCIENTIST FROM THE CONSORTIUM OF the International Academy of Ethics in India. She was included in the Platinum Book of the SPSA for active creative advancement and great success in her work. She holds many honorary titles of "MASTER" and "MAESTRO" from different countries. She is an honorary member of many Writers' Unions around the world. Sche has received awards, orders, and medals, including those under the auspices of UNESCO.