

Sunrise Serenade

When morning comes, my heart feels light,
I step outside to see the heart fluttered bright.
The golden sun shines warm and clear,
And fills the quiet world with cheer.

The green fields spread before my eyes,
Like a peaceful painting under the skies.
The cool breeze gently touches my face,
Bringing calmness, joy, and grace.

With the breeze, the little birds fly,
Singing their songs across the sky.
The paddy fields dance in the gentle air,
A beautiful sight beyond compares.

My eyes watch every little scene,
The golden sun and fields of green.
I stand and enjoy nature's lovely view,
Feeling peaceful, fresh, and new.

With birds that sing and fields that sway,
Nature gives me a beautiful start to the day.
I smile and whisper, "Good morning," with delight,
As nature fills my heart with light.

© K. Agathiya(IIIBA.Eng) , Government arts and science college, Vadalur

About the author

Agathiya is a third – year BA English student at Government arts and science college, vadalur. she is from kottagam and has a deep interest in English literature and creative writing. her writings are inspired by nature, peaceful moments, and every day's experience. Through her poem, she expresses simple through and emotions in an aesthetic way.
"She creates poetry where others find Ordinary moments".

Message:

"Everyone, take a moment to appreciate the nature around you.
When you truly feels its beauty, your heart will find peace.
Save earth let us enjoy nature, grow more greenery, and protect
Our beautiful environment for the future".