

Nature Howls

When I am going into the Earth
I heard a screaming voice
My ears burst
Water, Ozone layer, Air, soil, land, and so on.
Those who are screaming face pain,
I saw burdens, irritation, fear of death,
Smell of bad fragrance,
No one loves to touch
I too scream along with them.
Even I was worried by hearing their stories
Think for a long time
I remember two best activists
Seek help from Vandana Shiva and Tulasi Gowda
Protecting nature is the best choice for me
Shiva-NAVDANYA promotes organic farming
The conservation of native seeds
Gowda planted thousands of native species
Devoted her life to nature
Does afforestation lead to nature stopping?
Do disasters reduce in the environment?

Bionote:

Dr. B. Mercy Gnanabai is an Assistant Professor of English at Nazareth College of Arts and Science, Chennai, and an academic, researcher, and creative writer with a keen interest in English literature. She has pursued advanced studies in English, including an M.A., M.Phil., and Ph.D., and has been actively engaged in teaching, research, academic conferences, and professional development programmes. Her scholarly interests encompass contemporary literary studies, including ecofeminism, and her research has been presented at numerous national and international conferences. Her academic work has appeared in peer-reviewed and indexed journals and contributed to scholarly publications. Alongside her academic pursuits, Dr. Gnanabai is a creative writer with a particular interest in poetry, short stories, and song composition, especially religious songs. An avid reader and passionate lover of literature, she writes creatively under the pen name "JESMER."